

Bio of Rafael de la Rubia

Rafael de la Rubia (b. Madrid 1949) is the founder of the international organization Mundo Sin Guerras (World Without Wars) and the creator and spokesperson for the World March for Peace and Nonviolence (2 October 2009 – 2 January 2010). Mr. de la Rubia has worked more than 35 years in the field of nonviolence, primarily through his association with the Humanist Movement. During this time he has organized numerous international conferences and forums, and has toured more than 60 countries throughout the Americas, Europe and Asia giving lectures, seminars and workshops to deepen the understanding, development and practice of New Humanism.

In addition to his roles with Mundo Sin Guerra and the World March, Mr. de la Rubia currently serves as President of the Humanist Forum of Educators, which seeks to develop methodologies of nonviolence in education, and as Coordinator of the "Forum for Nuclear Disarmament of the Mediterranean." He is the author of four books, including "Introduction to a Universal Humanism" (2004) and "Reconciliation for a World Without War" (2007).

About World Without Wars

The International Association World Without Wars (WWW) is an affiliated organization of the Humanist Movement that promotes and fosters all kinds of ideas and actions to help put an end to war in our world. Its methodology of action is based on active nonviolence.

In 1995, its founder Rafael de la Rubia introduced World Without Wars internationally at the "Open Encounter of Humanism" in Chile (University of Santiago), an event which was attended by delegates from more than 50 countries.

Since then WWW has been active in numerous countries in 5 continents developing multiple activities. In recent years, it has prioritized campaigns for worldwide nuclear disarmament.

Apart from the local and national actions, for the last 5 years, WWW has been promoting campaigns at an international level: Europe for Peace, Mediterranean without Nuclear Weapons, Latinamerica Free of Wars, among others.
